KQED is proud to partner with the San Francisco Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services and Friendship House Association of American Indians to celebrate the rich culture of the American Indian community and bring awareness to policies impacting the future of American Indian people.

Join us for educational and cultural exhibits, traditional American Indian dancers, storytelling, food, crafts, and a display of tribal flags. A special awards ceremony will occur from 12pm – 1pm when we salute three outstanding local heroes for their work in the American Indian community.
